

This image shows the internal assembly of the ED-100. The components are mounted on a silver-colored metal chassis. From left to right, the visible parts include: a black terminal block with red and black wires; a blue rectangular motor with a black shaft; a blue printed circuit board (PCB) labeled 'Integrated electronics board ED-100' with various electronic components; a large blue toroidal transformer; and a silver-colored control module with a green terminal block on its right side. A black plastic cover is visible on the far right end of the chassis.
